THE GOVERNOR OF THE NEW TERRITORY OF WASH-INGTON-THE SURVEYS FOR THE ATLANTIC AN PACIFIC RAILROAD—BUMORS OF A PROPOSED CHANGE IN THE CABINET—NOMINATIONS, ETC. PROM A REGULAR CORRESPONDENT. WASHINGTON, April 6, 1853.

Washington, April 6, 1853.

In consequence of Major Stevens' appointment as Governor of the Territory of Washington, the Coast Survey office in this city has been placed under the immediate direction of Captain Benham. The reconnoissance of northern route for the Pacific Railroad, has been confided to Major Stevens, and he is organizing an efficient company, numbering forty to fifty, and embracing eminent scientific gentlemen and engineers, for that purpose. He designs starting from St. Paul's, Minnesota, and proceeding by the most direct, practicable route to Puget's Sound. Two or three other routes via New Mexico. &c., are to be explored by parties who will probably be under the direction of the graphical engineers. Not only the best route for the rail-road, but also much valuable scientific information, is anticipated from these surveys. Governor Stevens, on arriving out, proposes immediately to organize the territorial government.

There is a rumor of a change contemplated in the Cabinet-Mr. Dobbin to take Cushing's place, and Cushing to take Pobbin's, or go abroad. No doubt this arrangement has at least been talked of.

UNITED STATES SENATE.

THE CHARGES AGAINST GOV. RAMSEY, INDIAN SUPERINERDENTOn motion of Mr. Serastian, (dem.) of Ark., the President of the United States was requested to cause to be investigated the charges of fraud and misconduct in office, alleged against Alexander Ramsey, Superintendent of Indian Affairs in Minnesota.

THE SENATE DESATES AND THE INTELLIGENCER. The Senate proceeded to the consideration of Mr. Badgar's resolution, that the Secretary of the Senate have

The Semble proceeded to the consideration of Mr. Badgar's resolution, that the Secretary of the Senate have published in the National Intelligencer the full debates and proceedings of the Senate for the late legislative session, and pay the same compensation therefor as is allowed the Union and Globe, and provate for what has been reported and published in the Intelligencer during the present Congress.

Mr. Bonlann, (dem...) of A.k., thought they ought not to pay for what has been published in the National Intelligencer, and saw no reasen for printing in that paper the remainder of the Senate debates, but relinquished the contract when the presidential elections came on, because, by publishing speeches on both sides, it was somewhat a neutral paper. The editors therefore selected speeches on the whig side to serve party purposes, and now ask to be paid for them, for which he was not willing. Mr. Gwin, (dem.) of California, thought the gentleman mistock the object of the resolution, and explained it to provide for paying for the current speeches published—said the Intelligencer distinctly relinquished the contract, because of insufficient compensation. He was willing to pay for what the paper has done—nothing beyond.

Mr. MASON complimented the Intelligencer, but was opposed to the resolution.

After further debate, the consideration of the resolution was postponed until next December.

EXECUTIVE SEESION—RINGGOLD'S CHART OF CALIFORNIA; ERC. The Senate their went into executive seession.

When the doors were opened, Mr. Gwin, (dem.) of Cal., offered a resolution authorizing the Secretary of the Senate to deposite with the Secretary of the Navy five hundred and with the Collector of San Francisco the same number of copies of Ringgold's chart of the coast of California, heretofore ordered for distribution among navigators.

name to deposite with the Secretary of the Navy five hundred and with the Collector of San Francisco the same number of copies of Ringgold's chart of the coast of California, heretofore ordered for distribution among navigators.

Mr. Bucht, (deva.) of Ia., inquired why these charts were not to be distributed by Senators?

Mr. Gwin replied, because it was thought that would conflict with the prevision of the law restraining the purchase and distribution of books among members.

On this point a discussion followed, and finally the resolution was modified by entrusting the Secretary of the Senate with the discussion followed, and finally the resolution was modified by entrusting the Secretary of the Senate with the discussion followed, and finally the resolution was resolved that the President of the United States be requested, if in Må opinion it shall be compatible with the public interests, to communicate to the Senate such official information as he may have received touching the recent transactions between Capt. Hollins, of the sloop-of-war Cyane, and the authorities of San Juan de Nicaragua, together with the orders and instructions which have been given to Capitain Hollins, in relation to the af fairs at that place.

OPEN EXECUTIVE SESSIONS PROPOSED.

Mr. CHASE, (free soil) of Ohio, offered a resolution that all proceedings of the Senate shall be public and open, except when matters communicated in confidence by the President shall be received and considered, and in such other cases as the Senate, by resolution, from time to time, shall especially order. He supposed that every Senator understood the object and character of the resolution, and therefore it was necessary to say but listile upon the subject. As the rules now stand, the treaties and nominations are based on the principle of in secret session. It the rules shall be altered as he proposed, treaties communicated in confidence would still be considered in secret Session. He saw no reason why debates on nommations of a public character abould not be to the old rule.

Mr. BORLAND, (dem.) of Ark., was sorry to differ from the Senator, and thought that there was no danger in subjecting any or everything to the popular scrutiny.

Mr. HUNTH asked—'Do you think it better to excluse the deliberations of the President's Cabinet Council to the deliberations of the President's Cabinet Council to public scrutiny?"

Mr. Bonland replied he would not object so far as they could be made public. He believed the popular intelligence was able to dispose wisely of every question which may come before the country. There should be nothing secret in the examination of a man's character when he presents himself for favor. The public have a right to know his standing, and whether he is fit for the office. He could not conceive it necessary that treaties should be acted on in secret, and he believed that if the doors were opened, and the reporters for the press admitted, some treaties would not be ratified. He did not believe that under such a state of things, the treaty of Guadalupe Hidalgo would have become the law of the land. He did not believe the Clayton and Bulwer treaty would have been ratified, and it was his ophilon that many of those who voted for these treaties would now be glad to reverse their votes.

Mr. Pumrs, (whig) of Vt. remarked that during his experience in this body, various efforts had been made to change the rule relative to executive proceedings. To his gratification every attempt of the kind had been defeated; and he said that from the very commencement of the Senate down to the present day, the rule now in existence has governed. They should not, with a bare quorum, undertake to change permanently the character of the Senate and regulate the proceedings of those who are to come after them. He argued further against the resolution.

Mr. Bolland was not surprised at the Senator. It was perfectly natural for one of the gentleman's political school, for be understood this to be the fundamental principle of the whig party, to take the ground that the grovernment is separate and apart from the people, and that therefore the people have no right to question the government is begat and the people and that therefore the people have no right to question the government is based on the sind of the fundamental principle of the whig principles, and

Mr. CORNEL (dem.) took the floor in a general exposition of his views, and against the proposed amendment.

Mr. C.'s speech went so fully into detail that justice can only be done it by a full report. He claimed that the policy of Mr. Hoffman had been fully sustained by Messrs. Dix, Bouck, and Corning, and the most distinguished of the democratic party. Mr. Cornell had thought there were no longer sections of the democratic party. (This remark seemed to elicit a smile of increduity.) And he regretted to hear Mr. Loomis' plan denounced as an emanation from the barnburners. He considered it an attempt to evade the responsibility rightfully pressing, upon the Legislature, and to throw upon the people a decision which the people, in their constitution, determined should be met by the Legislature itself. Mr. C. then elaborately contrasted the two plans—that praposed by Mr. Loomis and that by Mr. Vanderbilt.

Mr. Jones (dem.) followed, and gave a minute history of the manner in which the State, in 1842, had been compelled, by the exigency of the deficit caused by the expansion of the debt policy to raise money. The Legislature of 1842 did not stop the gublic works. All they did was to provide the means of paying the debt, and preserve the credit of the State. That Legislature was one of the most enlightened that ever assembled within these halls, and for their conduct the people sustained them, and the people are not now prepared to abandon the guarantee of the constitution.

Mr. Cooley (dem.) asked whether Mr. Flagg did not do all he could to destroy the public credit, rolling up all the State and municipal debts, and publishing his circular far and wide, to alarm and frighten; and with all these attacks the credit of New York stood higher than almost any other State in the Union, and nearly as high as that of the Union itself. General Santa Anna left yesterday for Mexico via St.

He is accompanied by his wife and his lately married daughter, Mrs. Carlos Maillard, formerly Miss Carmits Santa Anna. There is a great feeling of grief manifested bere on his departure; but I am inclined to believe it is more to his money bags than to the illustrious "champion of liberty," as he is termed in some of the sycophantic addresses made to him prior to his leaving.

He will only go as far as Vera Cruz, where he will issue his proclamation, and, if attended to, he will them take the reins of government; but if not, he returns to his favorite retreat of Furbaco, to fight cocks for the remainder of his days. He will, no doubt, be invested (if mainder of his days.
